OTTIAQ Welcomes Member No. 2000!

Montréal, February 16, 2010 – The Ordre des traducteurs, terminologues et interprètes agréés du Québec (OTTIAQ) has reached the 2000 member mark.

This important milestone testifies to the value accorded to certification in the translation market. Indeed, in the last 10 years, the Order has seen its membership expand by nearly 25%.

Member No. 2000 is Isabelle Pouliot. A Certified Translator from English to French, she is delighted: "Being a member of the Order is a way to support the profession and it gives me access to continuing education resources and all the opportunities offered by a well established professional association."

OTTIAQ's president, François Abraham, C. Tr., adds: "Translators who are professional, qualified and certified by OTTIAQ are attracting a lot of interest both among professionals themselves and their clients."

Members of the general public can identify OTTIAQ members by the title they hold: Certified Translator (C. Tr.), Certified Terminologist (C. Term.) or Certified Interpreter (C. Int.).

With a membership of 2000, OTTIAQ can justly claim itself to be the language field's point of reference.
